Blitz:4'+2" This last game has the same manuever with a new lesson. The ...d5 concept in this opening had become an obsession for me. My ...g5 Callaham Attack had enjoyed the same obsession! In the kerrell game i missed ...d5 trying to implement my Callaham Attack knight move. In the Nikolova game I missed ...d5 trying for the same. This last game is from 5/26/12. My opponent is rated 2116. Wait til you see what I missed chasing ...d5!

18.Nxf6 Bxf6 19.Bd2-+ And black went on to win the game. So here is the point; If you set out to learn an opening what you are really doing is learning the middle game. The most important games you can study and analyze are your own because you know what that player was thinking. When you combine study and analysis you earn new weapons that only study and analysis can provide. If this system of defense is interesting to you, go to www.vachess.org and look up newsletter 2010-1. You will see some familiar analysis and here there is also some new. My system is still evolving and growing. The best part about knowing an opening this well is that as long as you stick to a great plan, your blunders become winning moves!!
